

Keio Institute for Global Law and Development (KEIGLAD) The 2nd Meeting on Comparative Legal Education:

Challenges to Study

Law Abroad

Partner Universities

Thammasat University, Faculty of Law (Thailand), Pannasastra University, Faculty of Law and Public Affairs (Cambodia), University of Economic and Law (Ho Chi Minh, Vietnam), Hanoi Law University (Hanoi, Vietnam), National University of Laos, Faculty of Law and Political Science (Laos), University of Yangon, Department of Law (Myanmar)

Date

Saturday, September 30th 2017
10:00 ~ 17:30

Venue

Keio University Mita Campus
South Building, 4th Basement Floor,
Distance Learning Room

International investments have been rapidly growing in Asia especially focusing on the Mekong region countries. The Asian market is expanding and economy is developing. However, at the same time, we are facing with the new legal issues which will disturb our common interests. In this circumstance, Keio University Law School is developing the Program to foster Asian Legal Professions (PAGLEP) who can take strong leadership to find solutions for those difficult issues.

From this viewpoint, studying law abroad more easily in Asian region is one of the key points of this program. However, there are various obstacles for students to study law in foreign countries even within Asian region. Sometimes they face with serious impediments and they give up outbound studies.

In order to find any concrete solutions, we will hold the 2nd meeting with our partner universities to share any good practices in studying law abroad and discuss frankly about any possible measures to overcome those obstacles.

Program *We will be provide simultaneous interpreter (English-Japanese)

Part1 Current Status of Studying Law Abroad in Keio Law School and Partner Universities

Part2 Discussion
How to improve the good environment for studying law abroad

Contact

Apply from the web form below
KEIGLAD Homepage: <http://keiglad.keio.ac.jp>
Mail: ls-keiglad@adst.keio.ac.jp

Free to Attend