Theme: Updated Status of Consumer Protection and Relief Scheme through Brazilian "Class Action" System

Date Time: 13:30~17:30, (Sat) 12th November, 2016

Venue: Keio University Mita Campus, East Research Building 6~7 FL, G-SEC Lab

Keio University (Faculty of Law) and Consumer Laws Comparative Study Group of National Consumer Affairs Center (NCAC) of Japan will jointly organize a symposium titled Brazilian "Class Action" System on (Sat) 12th November, 2016.

In Japan, the new Act on collective litigation for consumer damages came into force on 1st October 2016, which was modeled after Brazilian Class Action System. Attendants will be able to understand legal methods, etc. of consumer protection and relief through the lectures by the Brazilian experts and their discussions with Japanese experts and be provided thought-provoking opinions and information about the future direction of the Japanese consumer law. Those who may be interested in the consumer issue, including people from affiliation; corporation, governmental body, and academic institution, as well as citizens and students, are cordially invited. Note: Lecturers or their topics are subject to change according to circumstances.
